TO ALL LANDREVILLE FAMILY DESCENDANTS:

A Landreville Family History Book! It could not have been done without the assistance I received from many of you. Thank You very much.

A special Thank You to my Aunt Adele, in locating many of you and to Bob Hoerner, my dear friend, for the use of his computer and also his typing hours.

I never knew it would be such a large task, when I started, but I have enjoyed getting the book together. I went through a very traumatic divorce and having this book to work on saved my sanity. Please excuse any informational, grammar, or typing errors.

I have learned a lot about the Landrevilles. They are kind, loving, considerate, hardworking, honest, religious Americans. They have a great sense of humor and love to tell stories. I'm proud to be a descendant.

DAMAS (TOM) LANDREVILLE

Tom Landreville was born in Crabtree, a small town near Trois Rivières in Quebec Canada. His birth date is March 5, 1865. He was the fifth child born to Fabien Gauthier Landreville. His brothers and sisters are: Jean a (better known as J.B.) Maxime, Medore, Stanislas (better known as Tennis), Hormidas (better known as Medose), Honore (better known as Henry), Almesine, Malvina, Emma, Josephine and Marie.

Tom left Canada when he was 16, to come to the U.S.. He arrived in Argyle, Mn. He went to work for his brother Medore, who had come to this country ten years earlier. Tom filed a homestead claim north of Argyle. He worked in the woods in the winter and with his earnings improved his claim in the summer. He increased his land holdings up to a half section and lived on that farm for nearly fifty years. He developed his homestead into one of the finer farms in the locality and became well off financially. Honesty and square dealings were principles he followed strictly with everyone whom he did business. His word was always considered as good as bond.

Tom married Regina a in 1893. Regina was born December 25, 1875. Tom and Regina had sixteen children together. Parmelia was the first child and she died at a very early age from the croup. Edward was the second child born and he only lived to be about eight years old. He was sick for a number of days with a very high temp. By the time the doctor decided to do surgery his appendix had already burst and he died at home on the kitchen table. Fedora was their third child born 1896. Parmelia was born in 1897. Bert was born in 1898. To follow were Larencia (Lorraine) born in 1900, Irene, born 1902, Arthur, born 1904, Marie, born in 1906, Edward, born 1908, Gabriel, born in 1909, Dorothy, born in 1911, Blanch, born in 1913, Catherine and Cecil (twins), born 1916, and Joseph, born in 1917.

Tom Landreville was well known in the community for his enormous strength. Stories are told of his ability to carry two fifty gallon half barrels of water for some distance. Bert told me that when he was about ten years old, they had a fourth of July celebration. His father held a keg of beer on his shoulders, while another man jumped up on the top and did a jig to someone playing the fiddle. I found an article in the local paper that stated on March 4, 1897 there was a boxing match between Perry Smith and Tom Landreville. The fight was twenty rounds, they wore nine ounce gloves and the weight was two hundred pounds.

Tom worked very hard and became very wealthy, in the 1930's during the Great Depression he lost a sum of about $30,000 in the bank in Argyle.

Aunt Blanch wrote and told me "we had the best Pa on earth". "He was so good to the kids and to everyone and he did a wonderful job raising his family." He would take out the double buggy and bring the kids to the carnivals in Warren and every place to make them happy. Every Sunday they would all crawl into the Studebaker, it had two fold out seats between the front and the back, and they would go to church. During Lent, they never missed a day of church. Tom would take the kids to school in the caboose and he would warm the cushions and blankets before they would start out. Blanch also said her father was an honest man that would never cheat anyone. Blanch remembers very little about her mother. Blanch was only five years old when she died. She does remember her mother had a beautiful voice and she loved to sing. Her mother also played the accordion and was very good. Regina developed the flu in 1918 during a bad epidemic. She died from it at the age of 43, on November 2, 1918. The church was closed due to the epidemic so Bert and Tom fixed her hair with a beautiful comb and put her in the coffin. They had their own funeral and buried her. Sometime later Bert and Art dug up the grave to get their mother's wedding ring, but they got scared and changed their minds.

Tom Landreville had a long illness, he was first submitted to an operation for gallstones four years before he died. Pleurisy and other complications followed for which he submitted himself to numerous operations. He was under constant physicians care. He had his last operation on December 29, 1931, which he did not survive. Only a man of Tom's powerful physique could have stood such years of torture. Tom was 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighed more than 270 pounds. He was a man of tremendous strength and wonderful vitality. He was laid to rest on Monday January 4, 1932 at 10:00 am. His services were held at St. Rose of Lima Church in Argyle, Rev. John O'Dwyer officiated due to the illness of Rev. P. LeFloch. The church was filled with sorrowing friends who came to pay their last respects to the pioneer who lived in the community for half a century and was honored and respected as a citizen and dutiful husband and father. The pallbearers were Arthur, Bert, Gabriel, and Edward. He was also survived by three brothers, Medore, J.B., and Tennis, and two sisters in Canada. He was 66 years old.

FEDORA LANDREVILLE GOULET

Fedora was born Aug. 24, 1896, on the farm. She was the first child to survive childhood and live to be married and have children. She married Alfred Goulet on March 16, 1916. Their attendants were Louis Cerny and Mayme Goulet.

Fred and Fedora had 7 children. Beatrice was born Dec. 14, 1916. Edith was next, then Dorothy, Cletus, Durlyn, Laurelle and Duwane.

HADRICKS

They lived on a farm just west of Argyle. They later moved to Hadricks farm southwest of Argyle. They lived there until 1930. They had two burnt out crops and it was in the President Hoover days. Fred went bankrupt. They moved to the outskirts of Argyle. They owned a team of horses, one cow, some chickens, and two pigs. Fred went to work for Vick Goulet driving truck. He was making $15.00 a week and working from 4:00 A.M. to 8:00 P.M. 6 days a week. Fred also worked at the Pool Hall as a bartender, and sometimes for the elevator unloading boxcars of coal with a shovel. Times were very tough. Sometimes they did not know where the next crust of bread would come from. Art and Bert would give them the liver and head when they would butcher and Fedora made the best headcheese around. They lived by the tower on the west side of Argyle. They rented out their barn to Carl Mortenson, so they would have extra money.

Fedora went on welfare, she did sewing for folks. Fedora was a good mother, "she would have taken the shirt off her back, to have food on the table for us," says Cletus.

Fedora and Fred moved to Detroit with their son, Cletus. They lived with Beatrice who was already married to Adrian Morin. Fred had applications in at Ford, but did not get a job for 6 months. He was on his way back to Argyle, when Beatrice got a telegram that he was to report for work Monday morning. Fred no sooner got back to Argyle when he took the next train back to Detroit and reported to work 2 days late. Fred was sure happy. Fred and Fedora finally had some good luck and life was much easier for them.

Fred and Fedora had many grandchildren. Linda Kalma wrote, "Fedora and Fred came over to Moms on Sunday for fried chicken and spoke in French. She loved being with her Grandma, she made them laugh the hardest of anyone she knew. She would tell stories and scare them when they wouldn't want to go to bed. She told them her family was very superstitious."

CLETUS GOULET

BIRTHDATE: January 19, 1923

BIRTHPLACE: Argyle, MN

SPOUSE: Gwendolyn McMahan

SPOUSE BIRTHDATE: July 5, 1929

MARRIAGE: January 25, 1947

RELIGION: Catholic

Cletus was born on a farm west of Argyle. His father farmed until he was about seven. He helped his father, his dad let him drive truck once in a while and he would pay him 15 cents a day. Cletus loved it because he got to drive and he was only 11. He would help him in the winter and come summer he would herd cattle for his uncle Art Landreville. He gave him room and board and 50 cents a week. He would milk 5 cows, clean the barn, feed the chickens, separate the milk, feed the pigs, then go two and a half miles to convent school with his bicycle and come home after school and do everything again. He ate really good and he was happy and that was all that mattered. Sometimes he would work for uncle Bert Landreville, herding and milking cows.

One night Cletus wanted to go horseback riding and his Pa rented out their barn to a Mortenson and he had horse there. Cletus and LeRoy Timm went for a ride, when they got back, the owner was waiting for them, with Lenus Carlson, the town Sheriff and a signed warrant for Cletus's arrest for horse theft. They let him go home that night, but they picked him up at school the next day and took him to the Marshall County Court House to await his hearing. He was there three days. The longest three days of his life. They sure put a scare into him. He was only twelve. It straighten him out, and they threw it out of court.

One day, Dorothy was watching over everyone and Cletus was giving her a hard time. He came home early from school and she wouldn't let him in the house because she was listening to Ma Perkins on the radio. He kicked at the door. She still wouldn't let him in so he pulled the fuse, that did it. She came flying out with a broom in her hand. He had shut off all the lights and shut off her program. He was so scared he didn't go close to the house until his Ma came home, and then he got it from her. He did not pull any more fuses after that.

Dorothy, his sister, had married Steve Zippa, Steve gave Cletus a 22 single shot rifle. The first time he fired it was at a gopher by the cemetery south of Argyle. He hit that gopher on the first shot. He still has the gun, or he gave it to his younger son.

Cletus got a job with the Ford Company, his Pa helped him get it. He worked there til he went in the service on March 10, 1943. He was in the Army Engineers. They went over seas and Landed at Liverpool, England. Their mission was to build air strips for the 8th Airforce in Atwaton, England. They also built Eisenhowers headquarter located at Kingston, England.

" One month after D-Day we hit the beaches at Le Havre, France to build a camels foot dock and a road to connect to the Red Ball Highway. This way the boats could unload and move the supplies to the front lines. From the boat dock we cleaned up the rubble with our bulldozers. We dug a hole about 300 feet long to bury 3000 civilians that were buried under rubble. What happened was the Germans intercepted some radio messages where the allies would warn the French before they would bomb a city. This way they would not have to evacuate unless warned to do so. But the Germans tricked them with their own radio message, and told the civilians that the allies were not going to bomb that Friday. But the allies did bomb and almost all the civilians in the city were buried under the rubble. There was approximately 400 German soldiers that were warned and went to the bomb shelters for safety. Very few were hurt or killed. From there we went to Boiselacuta, France. We built a cemetery to bury American soldiers after they were identified. After we finished that job, we thought we would get a break. They said we were going to Paris for a furlough. We were there three hours, when the whole battalion was put on alert and were told to meet at the racetrack north of Paris. There, we were informed that we were going on a mission to close a gap where the Germans broke through at the bulge, that was on December 12, 1944. We traveled all night with our cat eyes. Cat eyes being lights that were inset in the body of the truck so they could not be seen from the air at night. We ended up in Luxembourg, where orders come to brake up our battalion. I was put in with the 118th infantry as a foot soldier. We went to Saarbrucken, Germany , where we took over the homes that the Gestapos were living in. These homes were filled with pictures and silverware stolen by the Germans when they occupied France. The pictures were from the French Museums. There were approximately 150 homes built for the Gestapos in that city. We used these homes for our quarters. The next day we went to the outskirts of the city in case the Germans would counter-attack, but they never did. General Patton, our general, "old blood and guts" of the 3rd army had stopped them at the bulge. We were a part of it and were proud of it. Then the war was over. We went back to Camp Chesterfield at LeHarve, France to be shipped back home. We were there about four weeks because we had to wait our turn. They would send the units with the most points home first. Points being issued according to how you participated in different battles. We departed November 28, 1945 and arrived back in the states on December 5, 1945. We took a train to Camp Atterbury, IN where I was discharged. I then took a train to Detroit arriving home a 9:00 PM that night. I sure was glad to be back home again. I did not go back to Ford and report for work for one year. In the meantime, I would work with my brother-in-law, Adrain. We would repair chimneys on houses. We worked good together he would repair two of them a day. I always respected and loved him. He never lead me wrong. One day, he told me, he said you know there are some people out there that don't even know how to tie their own shoes. He said to me, let me see you tie your shoe. So I tied it in front of him, he said that is wrong. You do it this way, now every time I tie my shoes I think of him. He pulled a fast one on me. He was a stinker that way, but we got along good. We never had harsh words with one another. Well, I finally reported for work at Ford Motor Co. at the Rouge Plant in Dearborn. I got married and lived happily ever after."

PARMELIA

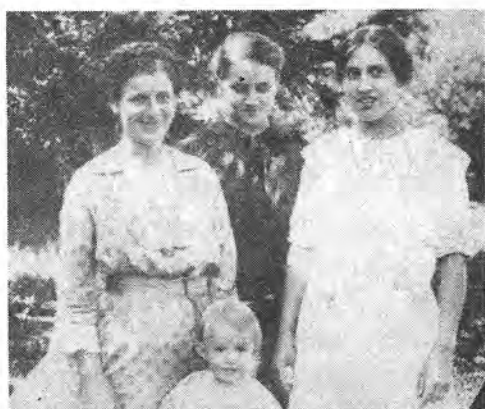

Parmelia was born in 1897 on the home place in Argyle. She was close to her mother and her sister Fedora. Bert and Parmelia also shared a special bond. She grew up helping with the younger children and all the daily chores on the farm.

Parmelia married Simon Beaudry at the age of sixteen. Simon bought a place right across the road to the east and north of Parmelia's home place. Parmelia would run home for breakfast every morning. Bert said he didn't think she was ready to be married and considered it a game.

Simon and Parmelia traveled to Canada to visit, while on their trip Parmelia developed Diphtheria. She was quarantined for her illness. Her brother Bert heard she was very lonely and traveled to Canada to see her. He was only aloud to wave through a window, but Parmelia was so glad to see him. Shortly after Bert's visit Parmelia died. She died on her mothers birthday, December 24, 1917 and she was 17 years old. She was buried in Vassar, Manitoba because of the Diphtheria. Simon and Parmelia had no children.

EDELBERT

Bert was born September 19, 1898 on the farm his father homesteaded. Growing up Bert worked hard around the farm helping his father and also helping with all his brothers and sisters. He attended St. Johns near St. Cloud, Minnesota for a very short time. He moved to Ashland Wisconsin to work in the Lumber Mills. He lived in Wisconsin for eight years. He visited his fathers family in Crabtree, Quebec before returning to Argyle. Bert fell in love and married Laura Capistran on November 7, 1929 in Argyle. Bert was 32 years old. I asked Bert how he met Laura and he told me in 1925 he was going to a party at Felix Bolduc's and Laura was suppose to be there. Laura traveled to Berts home that evening and they never did meet up that night. Bert told me he use to fix his eye on her in church. Laura was always dressed up and sat in front of him. The first time he went to her place for supper was the first time he ever kissed her.

Bert and Laura farmed Laura's fathers land and they rented some land from Alfred Olson. One of the first crops they were to harvest was lost to hail. The hail storm took a team of horses and their dog.

Bert and Laura have six children. Theresa born August 17, 1930, Adele born September 19, 1931, Tom born May 15, 1933, Gladys born May 2, 1934, Olive born January 12, 1936, and Louis born April 11, 1943.

Bert was known for his ability to tell stories, he could talk for hours. We just never knew how much of it was fact and how much was fiction. I guess a little of both. Bert was a very strong man and like his father also liked to do some boxing. In 1931, Bert needed some extra income, so he bootlegged for three years. He hauled water from the home place. He would collect forty gallons at a time. He usually made 10-25 bottles of beer, but for special occasions, such as ball games he would bring home sixty gallons of water. Kroke (store owner in Stephen) would sell him the bottles by the case. Beer was sold for 25 cents a bottle and you would get a nickle back if you returned the bottle. He also sold moonshine for $1.50 a bottle. He bought the moonshine in Red Lake Falls. Bert was turned into the authorities by two mad women that did not want their husbands drinking. He was fined $75.00.

Bert quit farming in 1960 and rented out his land. He worked for the American Crystal Beet Plant in the fall and still raised chickens and cattle.

Bert became ill in 1986. He had been failing for a couple of years, but Laura had always been able to handle him. In June of 1986 Laura had an accident with the lawn mower and broke her leg. Bert entered the nursing home in Warren in July. He failed fast and was in and out of the hospital. September 19, 1986 Bert celebrated his 88 birthday with Laura, Tom, Judy, Blanch, Clarence, Gladys and Sheila. He died four days later on September 23, 1986. He is buried in Stephen, Minnesota.

THE FARM

by Roxane Enge

As soon as we could see the reflective decal on the telephone post, I knew it would be less than a couple of miles, and we would be driving up the narrow dirt road to Grandma and Grandpa's farmhouse. Brownie would be barking ferociously at our car, wagging his tail, though he knew we were family. Grandpa Bert would always be the first to emerge from the farmhouse to greet us in his old blue coveralls and his John Deere cap, his strong body, worn with time, walking with a slight limp. Grandma soon would follow with her hair in a scarf, wearing her ragged flowered apron. Everyone would be talking at the same time, and us girls always were glad to see Brownie, who was a German shepherd most of the time, although not always brown in color. The first Brownie I remember was a Collie mutt.

We would then all go inside the farmhouse and plant ourselves in the kitchen around the big kitchen table with the plastic tablecloth. Grandpa Bert would be talking loudly, with Grandma Bert yelling at him in French, not to talk so loud. Grandpa would get out his jug of homemade wine and serve up a shotglass full for everyone, even us girls. He always said that a little wine would never hurt us kids.

Grandpa spent time with us kids on our visits. He would listen to our stories and tell us his elaborated stories about the good ol' days, either about a wicked storm they had struggled with, or one of his boxing matches, or making brew in the cellar. Any story he would tell, he made it amusing and interesting, even though we may have heard the same story before. He enjoyed playing games with us kids, especially cards and checkers. We would even catch him cheating on occasion, making that a little game of our own.

After eating the wonderful food my Grandma Bert prepared, Mom, my sister, and I would help with dishwashing and cleaning up the kitchen. We could always hear Grandpa Bert's loud, strong voice in the living room, talking or arguing about politics or news with my father.

We all soon would reside in the living room, digesting our meal, with the scent of burning wood from the stove and the sunset peeking through the window on the west end of the farmhouse. Grandpa Bert would take his place lying on the couch, with his worn feather pillow below his head, arms crossed at his chest, peaceful, as he looked when he lay in his coffin.

Later, at night fall, we would all settle in for the night. Mom and Dad would sleep on the hide-a-bed in the living room, my sister with Grandma, and me in the hallway bed, with Grandpa taking the bed in the "big bedroom", as we called it. Before my slumber, Grandpa would stop in the hallway to kiss me and remind me to say my prayers, and I would remind him to remove the spider web above my bed. Grandpa would be the last one to turn in for the night, always walking around the farmhouse, checking things, slamming doors. I never quite knew what he was doing. The last sounds heard before falling asleep were Grandma's soft whispers of prayer and her constant clearing of her throat.

Mornings were busy on the farm. Grandma would feed us a big breakfast consisting of eggs, cereal, greasy smoked bacon, and lots of toast. We would save and feed leftovers to Brownie and the two white cats you would only see at feeding time. Grandma would let us help her pick eggs in the chicken coop. My sister, being much more daring than I, would grab an egg right out from under a hen. The hens scared me, so I would wait until they moved on their own and then get the egg.

Grandpa taught us how to milk cows. He was patient with us, and I think he got a kick out of watching us do the milking. I remember one particular time in the barn when I was probably about 10 years old. A bull got loose in the barn; he was huffing and snorting and charging at us. Grandpa shoved me into a gated stall. I was scared, and I think Grandpa was too, but he got the bull back into his stall without any harm done to anything or anyone.

Grandpa was a hard worker, always in control of what needed to be done on the farm, like getting the wood chopped for the winter and getting the garden planted in the spring. Grandpa Bert's physical features were very prominent and strong. He had high cheek bones, a large Roman nose, and no teeth. He did have false teeth, but did not like wearing them. Grandma always reminded him to put in his teeth.

Grandpa's driving was only in high speed, especially when he would take us out driving in the country to show us the fields. I can remember my dad and I laughing hysterically about the way Grandpa would swerve and suddenly stop very close to a ditch, kind of like a ride at the fair.

When it came time to leave the farm and go home, there was always a sense of sadness among all of us. We would all be outside by our car giving each other our hugs and kisses. While we drove away, waving back until Grandpa and Grandma were out of sight, Brownie would chase our car until he reached the mailbox. We would always bring with us one of those pesty Grandpa Bert flies, that would come back to North Dakota with us.

IRENE LANDREVILLE MORIN

Irene was born March 3, 1902. She was born on the family farm just north of Argyle. She helped raise her brothers and sisters. She was one of the oldest children born to Tom and Regina and responsibilities came early.

Irene fell in love with Hubert Morin, he was George E. Morin's son. They were married in Argyle, MN. They had one son. Herbie was born in Warren or Crookston. Irene was a nurse aide and worked in a hospital. She and her husband owned Maroux Corner near Red Lake Falls for a very short time. Irene helped take care of her Pa when he was very ill. Her Pa told her "you have been here long enough now, you go with your husband." She listened to her Pa. Irene died of cancer in 1974, she was living and working in California at the time of her death. Irene and her husband ran a second hand store in Compton California.

Herbie, Irene's son married a woman named Ann. Herbie was not always as responsible as he should of been and Ann divorced him. They had three children together. I knew one of his children was named Herbie Jr. I'm not sure about the other two, but they were girls. One of his daughters was Denise and the other was Holly, I believe. These children are still living, as far as we know, some where in California. We have tried everyone we know to get in touch, but have had no success.

Herbie went out to California to visit his children, he was a party type person and drown while swimming in the Ocean. It is believed that he was under the influence of alcohol or drugs. He was an excellent swimmer. Herbie was a big man. I'm not sure of his age, but I know he was young.

I believe that Ann has remarried and her husband's name is Wayne Wibble. I believe he is in the Insurance business. We think his son is working in a hospital some where in Southern California. If any one has any information on Irene's grandchildren it would be nice to hear from them.

ARTHUR LANDREVILLE

Art Landreville was born January 30, 1904, on the farm his father filed a claim to in the late 1800's. He grew up helping his mother and father around the farm, and with all the other children. Art met Lucille Laurin and they were married January 6, 1931. Art bought the home place. His father was ill and in and out of the hospital and Art held the family together. Remember, his mother died in 1918. Tom Landreville died shortly before Art's first child was born. Geraldine was born before they buried Tom. Art took care of his sisters and brother who were still at home until they were married or went off on their own. Geraldine was born at her mothers parents farm, because in those days you kept the body in your home until the burial. Tom was buried January 4, 1932 and Geraldine was born January 1, 1932.

Art didn't own his first car, until he had been married seven years. Art always helped Lucille with household chores. He liked to help mix up the bread dough for all the loaves they made every week and sometimes daily. They had no indoor plumbing and he emptied all the pails outside. Art also washed out the diapers for all the kids as they were born. Art had some unusual eating habits, he liked garlic and limburger cheese. He was a very strict father and they are all grateful for that now. He also was a very generous man with his things.

Art walked with a limp, when he was 18 years old he was plowing with horses and he always took the shotgun along to do a little hunting. It accidently went off and hit him in the knee cap. Art was a very religious man and he promised God, that he would give up dancing and coffee if the Lord would let him live.

Art wasn't so much a great "warrior", but a great worrier. He was also a great prophet and could also forecast the weather, especially the storms when the kids wanted to go to out of town ballgames. He missed his calling as a weatherman. Betty and Geraldine only spoke French when they started school and called their dad by his first name, it wasn't until years later they began to call him dad.

Art loved his wife, he always aloud her to go to Argyle visiting when the chores were done. His children had to be dressed up. The girls wore nylons to protect their legs, and always had the best that he could give them. His wife died of cancer November 28, 1956. Art was by her bedside every minute and he made the doctors promise not to tell Lucille that she had cancer. He did not want her to know that she was dieing.

Art and Bert were very close brothers. Art went to Ashland, Wisconsin to work with Bert and when they came home to Argyle they lived only a few miles apart. They helped each other with cutting hay and chopping wood. Bert would go to Argyle almost daily and he would stop by and visit Art on the way.

Art and Lucille had five children, Geraldine, Betty, Roger, Willard, and Dale. Art never wanted to move off the farm or enter a nursing home. He got his wish, he died of a heart attack in his sleep at home on October 25, 1969. I believe he died in the same room he was born in. Art Landreville is buried in Argyle.

MARIE LANDREVILLE BOLDUC

Marie was Tom and Regina's eight child. She was born on May 18, 1906. She was born at home on her parents farm. She fell in love with Felix Bolduc, after they courted in the early twenties. Felix was from Stephen and was born November 15, 1902. They were married on June 3, 1924 in Argyle.

Felix and Marie lived with Felix's parents several months when they were first married. They built a small house across the road from Felix's folks. In 1944, they moved back to his fathers vacant home. It was equipped with 32V electricity, which was a great improvement over kerosine and gas lamps. The house was much larger and more convenient for a family of eight. REA service became available in 1949. They operated a diversified farm, which required much hard work for everyone.

Saturday night was grocery shopping time and Sunday was for church and visiting. Everyday they had chores of chopping wood for cooking and heating, hauling wood indoors, milking the cows and separating the cream, and cooking for every one on the old wood stoves.

Marie had a reputation for being an excellent cook. She always used cream in many of her recipes. She was a terrific help mate for Felix and a wonderful mother and grandmother.

Marie and Felix had six children, Irene was born July 1, 1925, Doris was born on March 10, 1927, Robert was born on December 15, 1928, Shirley was born on October 2, 1930, Wallace was born on March 18, 1933, and Richard was born on August 4, 1944.

Marie developed ovarian cancer and died July 19, 1977. Felix lived many years beyond Marie. He became blind, but still kept active with the help of his children. Felix developed pancreatic cancer and died January 22, 1992. Felix and Marie are buried near Stephen where they lived all there married lives.

EDWARD LOUIS LANDREVILLE

Ed was the second Edward born to Tom and Regina (when one child would die at an early age it was common to reuse the name).

He grew up helping with all the family chores and younger sisters and brothers. This was a very close family and remained close throughout their lives. Ed was born January 27, 1908 at home on his parents farm. He married Dorothy Peterson of Strathcona, MN on January 29, 1930.

Dorothy was born on February 6, 1917. They had one daughter, Ester (always known as Jackie), who was born on October 1, 1931. Ed and his family lived in Argyle until 1939. They moved to California and worked in the ship yards. They moved back to Minnesota after the war ended. Ed worked as a janitor in the Argyle school system and he also owned and operated a cafe in Argyle. In 1968 Ed and Dorothy moved back to California and lived there until 1976. They moved back to Argyle and managed the St. Gabriel Apartments (named for his brother Gabriel, and owned by LaVern Landreville). Gabe had talked with his brother about dieing because he knew he had cancer, Gabe was sure that he would die before Ed. One sunny day in 1978, Ed was mowing the grass around the apartment building, Bert had driven by and decided he would stop and visit when Ed was finished as not to interrupt him. Ed died of a heart attack before Bert got back to him that day. Bert and Gabe both came to Ed's funeral and talked alot about seeing their brother again. Ed is buried near Argyle.

Dorothy moved to Warren after her husband died and lived in an apartment. Jackie took care of her in her home until her death in 1982.

His children said he was a great father and mother. He lived in the Argyle, Stephen area most of his life. He spent the last 20 years in St. Paul. He died of cancer in June of 1979. He was 69 yrs. old. He is buried in Argyle.

I remember a story my grandfather (Bert) used to tell me: Art was supposed to get the car for a date with Lucille, but Bert & Gabe stole the car, picked up Laura and went to Oklee to get Alice. They were gone all day & into the night. Art was so mad he was going to kill his brothers! Aunt Blanch was on her knees to God praying for her two naughty brothers.

Buster LaBine also told me Gabe wanted to go to Quebec before he died. He wanted Bert to go too, but Bert said he couldn't so Buster and Doris LaBine, Gabe and Vern and Cindy went to Crabtree to see where his father was born. He also told the story, Gabe told them his father (Tom) left home when he was 16. He went back for a visit when he was in his twenties, he had a beard and longer hair. His mother answered the door and she didn't recognize him. He asked for work, she said she was sorry, but they had no work and they were poor, but she invited him for a meal. He then said Mama, it's me, it's Tom, she was so surprised and happy, they all celebrated.
