

HYPOLITE DUPUIS AND ANGELIQUE RENVILLE

A HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVE ON THEIR LIVES AND TIMES

Dupuis House at Sibley Historic Site in Mendota

This Heritage Event is sponsored by the French-American Heritage Foundation.

Date: Saturday, August 15, 2026 Time: Noon to 2 p.m.

Location: Dupuis House, Sibley Historic Site, 1357 Sibley Historic Highway, Mendota, MN 55150.

Cost: $15. Register on the website of the French-American Heritage Foundation (FAHF) at www.fahfminn.org or send a letter with your name(s), email address(es), and a check payable to FAHF, P.O. Box 13542, Saint Paul, MN 55113.

Beverages and hors d'oeuvres will be provided.

The Hypolite and Angelique Dupuis House on the Sibley Historic Site is a handsome structure. While it may be impressive and interesting to students of Minnesota architectural history, the lives of its original owners are at least as interesting as the building itself. The lives of Hypolite and Angelique Dupuis—each of them individually and the two of them together—are fascinating and meaningful. Taken together, their stories nicely illustrate a good deal of early Minnesota history.

Hypolite Dupuis

Daniel C. Munson is a retired chemical engineer and a student of technological/financial history as well as Minnesota history. He contributes regularly to “Financial History” magazine as well as to “Over the Years,” a publication of the Dakota County Historical Society. He is the author of two books, Malice Toward None: Abraham Lincoln, the Civil War, the Homestead Act, and the Massacre—and Inspiring Survival—of the Kochendorfers, and Fiscal Follies: A Little Fun with Economics (and Economists).

Daniel C. Munson